Triple Praise and An Idea

• I wish to praise the following CBC programs:

1. The Living Premise. (Quest Tuesday, October 22, CBC-TV). This off-Broadway revue proves that an indictment of our (this includes all of us) morals and ethics can be done humourously yet sharply; in excellent taste yet with great clarity and with an obvious respect for the dignity of man, no matter what colour his skin happens to be.

2. The Wayne and Suster Show. (Monday, October 21, CBC-TV). All three skits were top comedy and were performed with unusual skill. The entertainment provided by Don Gillies and the folk singing duo Ian and Sylvia was a very welcome change. We got fine singing instead of love sick howling, and well - thought - out comic dance routines.

3. Telescope — Walt's (Disney) World. (Friday, October 25, CBC-TV). A 30-minute documentary about a very great genius; a genius who has in common with most truly great geniuses, inbred humility. Fletcher Markle, the producer, should be highly commended for his work.

Now I wish to see what CBC Times readers think about this idea. How would the powers that be like to provide Canadian listeners out West beyond the reach of the U.S. stations with the annual Emmy Awards Show? —an American one not to be confused with the annual Liberty Awards Show of Canada. . . .

—V.C.A., Calgary, Alta.

Let's Face It

• Congratulations on your new series Let's Face It (seen on alternate Sundays at 10:00 p.m. on CBC-TV). A fresh approach to the contemporary Canadian scene, certainly no poor relation to England's Establishment and The States' Living Premise.

No doubt you will tread on many delicate toes, and I can only hope that criticism from sensitive groups will not affect your fine program.

—A.D., Medicine Hat.

Le Medicin Malgré Lui

• I would like to express my deep appreciation and warm thanks to CBC for Wednesday's Festival program, Moliere's Le Medicin Malgré Lui (Wednesday, October 30, on CBC-TV). The acting of Guy Hoffman as Sganarelle was superb, a rare and welcome treat indeed.

—C.R., Brandon.

Playdate

• I would like to express my appreciation for Monday's night's program on Playdate—Willow Circle. (November 4, CBC-TV). I believe it is the best program I have ever seen on TV. All the performers were good, especially Charmion King as Anna. Thank you for a wonderful hour of entertainment.

—A.S., Charlwood, Man.

No Show

• On Saturday, November 2, we were very sorry when the Juliette Show didn't come on, even when our own fine Winnipeg performers were guests. It isn't any wonder that Winnipeg young artists have such a job to make good, when a football game, which wasn't of any importance to us, was the cause of excluding the performance. It could have been overlooked had it been the Blue Bombers. We do hope that this particular show can be shown at a later time or date to renew our faith in CBWT.

—Mrs. L.D., Winnipeg.

Kingfisher Cove

• Please permit me, through the CBC Times, to thank the CBC and CKCK-TV, Regina, for the pleasure of once again seeing and hearing the lovely voices and the instrumental music of harp and piano on Kingfisher Cove (Saturdays, CBC-TV). To my friends and myself it is the best program of all and is greatly enjoyed. Many thanks to the participants, and may we continue to have the pleasure for the season of its great uplift for shut-ins.

Morning Concert

• May I express my thanks and pleasure for the music this morning on Morning Concert (Sept. 30, CBW). I do hope that we can have more such concerts with the Orpheus Glasgow Choir, and once again, many thanks.

—Mrs. D.C.M., Winnipeg.

Grey Cup Fever

SINCE 1948, when the invaders came out of the West to conquer staid old Toronto with their high spirits, broncos, chuckwagons, fiddlers and flapjacks, Grey Cup Day has been building in popularity and interest until it now ranks as Canada's foremost, if unofficial, festival.

That Grey Cup Day in 1948 was lively enough before the big game began, as the Western contingent went about dispensing open-hearted Western friendship to all and sundry; but when the underdog Calgary Stampeders defeated the favoured Ottawa Rough Riders 12 to 7, downtown Toronto turned into one big glorious Stampede. Horses were ridden into hotel lobbies to drink from fountains, there were traffic jams and square dancing in the streets, and Stetson-hatted Westerners were everywhere. Some say Toronto has never been the same since. More important for the rest of Canada, the 1948 festivities marked the beginning of nation-wide popularity for professional football in Canada. In succeeding years, with the added impetus provided by national broadcasts of the game, Grey Cup Day has become the closest thing Canada has to the Munich Oktoberfest or the New Orleans Mardi Gras. It's a time when uninhibited fun takes the place of the phlegmatic sanity that usually marks the Canadian character.

The man who started all this 54 years ago, Earl Grey, a tweedy, sports-minded Governor-General, would be surprised at all the fuss. When he donated the Cup in 1909, it was intended to be symbolic of the national championship in amateur rugby, and in the early years only Eastern colleges and clubs competed.

In the first contest, the University of Toronto romped over the Toronto Parkdale club by a score of 26-6 to carry home the $50

The first snowfall of the season held fascination for three visitors to CBXT Edmonton. CBC film cameraman Bob Rouveroy captures their interest for CBXT Metro News. The group included (left): Noel R. Palmer, director of television programming, New Zealand Broadcasting Corporation, Emmanuel A. Aryee, Ralph Horley, CBC Edmonton manager and Anthony Lawoe. Mr. Aryee and Mr. Lawoe are both on a three-month tour of duty with CBC Edmonton, part of an extended training plan involving the CBC and Ghana's new broadcasting system.

around CBC

WHEN THE WORLD'S emerging nations establish their own broadcasting networks, the CBC frequently serves as a model. Evidence of this trend increases from year to year, as the CBC plays host to delegations from abroad, and requests are made for the loan of CBC technicians and producers to serve as advisors and trainers for foreign broadcasting systems.

The photo above shows two current visitors at CBXT Edmonton from one of the new African nations, Ghana, as well as an observer from a well-established nation, New Zealand.

At present, a ten-man group of agricultural and broadcasting specialists is touring CBC production centres from Vancouver to Montreal under the auspices of the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization.

In the group are: C. A. Quahhar, East Pakistan; M. S. Quarishi, West Pakistan; M. Razeghpanah, Iran; M. Latifi, Afghanistan; A. Dhane, Tunisia; M. S. S. Gariani, Libya; M. S. Qubbaj, Jordan; N. D. Hassan, Lebanon; I. M. El Ziadi, U.A.R.; and M. Y. F. Ilahi, Saudi Arabia.

The group toured the United States prior to coming to Canada.

YOUNG PERFORMERS in grades 7, 8 and 9 can look forward to a return of CBWT Winnipeg's talent showcase, Junior Hi-Lites. Although the program will not be on for a few weeks, auditions must be held well in advance so that they don't conflict with Christmas holidays. Deadline for applications for the auditions is November 30. Applications should be sent to Junior Hi-Lites, Box 160, Winnipeg, or may be left at the switchboard of the CBC Building, 541 Portage Avenue.

OVERSEAS DEVELOPMENT:

Water wheel used for irrigation in India.

Are We Contributing Enough?

THE SIXTIES outlines the subject of aid to underdeveloped countries in three programs starting December 1.

UNDER THE headline "Canada's Weak Foreign Aid Program," an editorial appeared a few months ago in the Ottawa Citizen, and was quoted in the journal of the Canadian Association for Adult Education. It read, in part, as follows: "External Affairs Minister Martin has stated that the whole question of economic aid to underdeveloped countries is under intensive review within the government. It is to be hoped that this study results in early action to bolster this country's aid program. For evidence is mounting that Canada is not pulling its weight in this field." The editorial continued by quoting a report which indicated that "only Denmark was more parsimonious than Canada in the amount of assistance given to the poorer countries last year."

The subject of Canada's contributions to overseas development has been discussed not only in newspapers but at several conferences arranged by various organizations during the past year. Each new discussion has shed light on some new aspect of the topic, and each has also tended to emphasize older, basic questions: What is foreign aid? How much and what kind should Canada supply, and to whom? What is being done now, and what should be done in the future? What success have past efforts achieved?

Some opinions on Canada's role in foreign aid, and on the whole subject of overseas economic development, will be presented on three programs of The Sixties, to be seen on CBC Television Sundays, December 1, 8 and 15, at 5 p.m. Prepared by Christina Newman, a writer on current affairs (and wife of Peter Newman, Ottawa editor of Maclean's magazine), the programs will be produced by Cameron Graham. Program organizer for the series is Christina McDougall, and Frank McGee is regular host of The Sixties.

The telecasts will deal with concepts of foreign aid by using films, narration, and interviews with people who hold strong views on the subject, both for and against.

10 SECONDS That Shook the World

The development of the atomic bomb is chronicled in a special program Friday on CBC-TV

AUGUST 6, 1945: a sunny day in Hiroshima. Washing begins to flutter on lines, workers and school children bustle off to begin a new day, relatively unworried about the war, for this Japanese city has never been a military target. Enemy planes pass harmlessly overhead, and when a B-29 bomber buzzes through the cloudless sky, those below take for granted it will go away. If they raise their eyes to watch the tiny black speck they quickly forget it in contemplating the glorious day that is to be the last for many of them.

The B-29 buzzes off. It is just a weather plane. But it radios a deadly signal to a second plane: The weather over Hiroshima is good. Skies clear. Within seconds the second plane streaks towards Hiroshima. In its belly is a little pear-shaped bomb, its casing as smooth and shiny as a mirror.

In 58 minutes the first atomic bomb will fall on Hiroshima. Within 10 seconds the city will be ashes. A giant, mushroom-shaped cloud seething with lethal radiation will spew into the sky the horrific symbol of a new age, and the future of man will be changed forever.

The authoritative, power-packed story of the dramatic events leading to The Ten Seconds That Shook the World will be told in an hour-long "special" to be seen on CBC-TV Friday night, December 6, at 8:30 p.m. It was prepared by independent American producer David L. Wolper. Using documentary film never before shown publicly, gathered from Germany, Italy, the Soviet Union, France, Japan and the U.S., the program offers a definitive story of the scientific adventure, moral conflicts, and twists of fate involving a handful of men who changed the course of history.

It is 1939 when the account begins. Scientists all over the world are racing towards one goal: splitting the atom and releasing fantastic stores of energy which could destroy man—or be his servant. Enrico Fermi, who had fled to the U.S. from Fascist Italy, repeats at Columbia University an experiment he had done earlier, but now using new information smuggled out from abroad, and correcting an earlier mistake. Confident that an atomic bomb is possible, he (Please turn to page 23)

Festival presents Arnold Wesker play

MANY DRAMA CRITICS consider British playwright Arnold Wesker the most promising and clearest contemporary social dramatist. His Chips With Everything is a recent Broadway success. Perhaps his best play, Roots (one of a trilogy performed in London's famous Royal Court Theatre in 1959), ends with a beginning, striking the hopeful note that rings through all his writing.

The plot involves the Bryants, a family of Norfolk farm labourers whose dull lives are upset by the arrival back from London of Beatie, their younger daughter, who has fallen in love with Ronnie, a London boy with "advanced" ideas. He has shown her a world outside the tastelessly simple, narrow, quarrelsome life she has grown up in.

Beatie tries to make her startled family understand Ronnie's idea that words are a bridge between human minds. She doesn't really understand what she's talking about. She just likes the sound of herself as a mouthpiece for Ronnie. It's all Greek to the Bryants, who are content with a miniscule vocabulary and the less thinking called for, the better. Imagine the suggestion that there are finer things in life than what the wire-less offers. By the end of the play Beatie hasn't really broken through to her family, but she has started to think for herself. She'll never be an intellectual, but she's beginning to be a person.

The Wings of Night

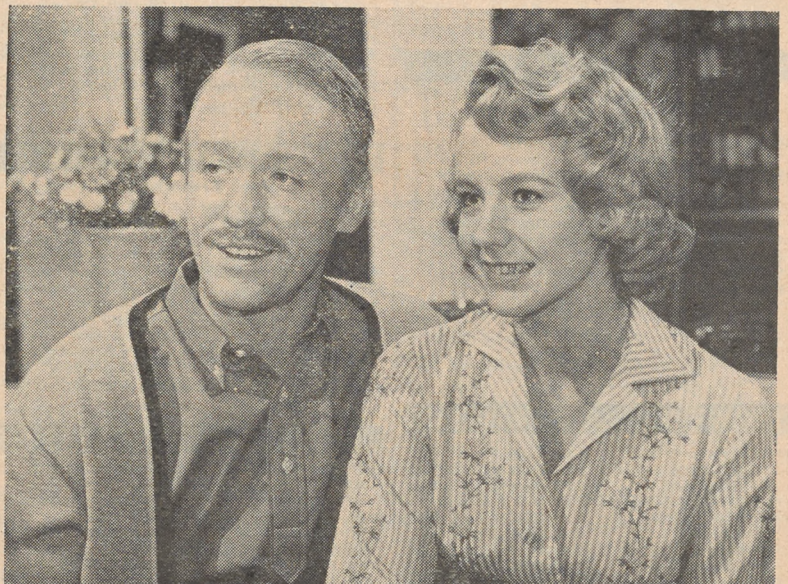

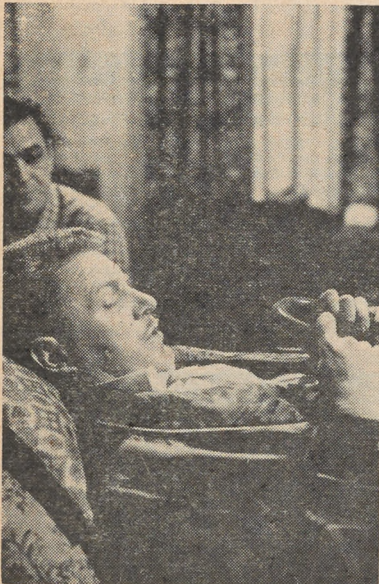

James Doohan
and Jane Mallet

THOMAS RADDALL is that rarity of rarities: a Canadian novelist who earns his living by writing about Canada and Canadians. Almost every story he has completed since turning to full-time writing 25 years ago has been set in his native province of Nova Scotia. No exception is his 1956 novel, The Wings of Night, which this week begins an eight-week run in dramatized form on CBC-TV's The Serial, seen Thursdays at 8:30 p.m.

Adapted by Hugh Webster and produced by Ronald Weyman and David Gardner, The Wings of Night was filmed in part on location in Nova Scotia. The cast includes James Doohan, John Drainie, Jane Mallett, Jeremy Wilkin, Irena Mayeska and Charles Palmer.

Doohan plays the role of Neil Jamieson, a young man who returns to his home town after a 14-year absence to find his grandmother living in poverty, the town's one industry in the hands of a wealthy, unscrupulous senator, and his boyhood sweetheart married to the senator's hard-drinking son. Neil's attempt to free the town from the senator's overpowering influence leads ultimately to tragedy.

Sportscasters Make Fearless Predictions

CBC's sports experts have varying opinions on the outcome of Canada's great football classic

WHO WILL WIN the Grey Cup?

We put this question to CBC sportscasters on the Prairies, and here is what they said:

ERNIE AFAGANIS, CBC Edmonton: "This has been a difficult year for predictors, especially in the West. All the pre-season picks didn't hold up too well. Who would predict Winnipeg out of the playoffs, and how many in the East figured Ottawa to come on so strong? The Grey Cup could also feature two clubs not even considered playoff material in both leagues. Regina was given fourth spot in the West, and Ottawa fourth in the East. Both clubs have made the league finals. However, I still go along with the favourites. Hamilton will meet B.C. Lions in the Grey Cup. I also lean to B.C. for a narrow cup win. It should be the first of many for the Lions."

GLENN BJARNASON, CBC Edmonton: "The Hamilton Tiger Cats will soundly trounce the B.C. Lions in the Grey Cup Game. Why? . . . Simple! Hamilton has always been a rough, tough football club. Bear in mind too, the TiCats have lots of Grey Cup experience. You'll find, I think, that the Hamiltons will simply pound the Lions to death physically, and Bernie Faloney will then proceed to dissect the Lion defence. If they don't win the Grey Cup, do you think they will fire Dave Skrien?"

BOB MOIR, CBC Winnipeg: "With Hamilton Tiger-Cats meeting British Columbia Lions in the Grey Cup final, it must finally be a win for the eastern club. Hamilton is too big and strong for the Lions, who are just about the biggest in the west. Tiger-Cat runners Pace, Baker and Betheria are power runners and mixed with Bernie Faloney's field generalship and passing ability it will knock the Lions back on their heels. B.C. will have to rely too much on the pass and Hamilton has a strong defence."

DON WITTMAN, CBC Winnipeg: "At the time of this writing four teams still had designs on Earl Grey's hunk of silverware: Saskatchewan and British Columbia in the west and Hamilton and Ottawa in the east. And the question I have been asked, is, 'Who will win it?' Prepare yourself for Wittman's wise words. Saskatchewan will win the Grey Cup. And now that I've stuck my neck out I'll even go one step further. Saskatchewan will beat Ottawa at Empire Stadium in Vancouver on November 30, causing such hysteria in Regina that they'll be forced to move the provincial capital to Moose Jaw."

'Best Original Teleplay' On Playdate Monday

DAVID MERCER, a rather serious, bearded Yorkshireman in his mid-thirties, who says he is "pig-sick of naturalism" in the theatre, has been exploring the wider world of unreality with humorous perception that has won him swift success. The son of an engine-driver, he served in the British Navy during the Second World War, studied art in Newcastle for four years, and wrote several novels which came to nothing. "Then," he recalls, "I saw A Taste of Honey and thought, well, if Shelagh Delaney wrote that because she thought she could do better than Rattigan, I could write something better than her play."

He wrote four plays in 1962, the BBC presented them, and critics and public were intrigued and highly complimentary, particularly about A Suitable Case For Treatment, a comedy suggesting that life becomes baffling as soon as it becomes comprehensible, and that hanging on to sanity in a world where there are no toes, only tootsie-wootsies, can be like leaning over a precipice while standing on a banana-skin. The play, which won this year's "best original teleplay" award by the Screenwriters' Guild, will be presented on CBC-TV's Playdate on Monday night, December 2, at 9:00 p.m., in a production by George McCowan, featuring John Horton, Michael Learned, Henry Ramer, Irena Mayeska and Ruth Springfield.

Queen Speaks

At Cable Opening

THOUSANDS OF FEET below the surface of the Atlantic and Pacific lies a slim thread of metal, linking Britain, Canada, Australia and New Zealand in a continuous communications chain. Through the weird blackness of never-ending night at ocean bottom, a world that man as yet knows little about, voices, pictures, broadcasts and teletype messages flash with electronic speed across the world.

This is the Commonwealth cable, the result of a co-operative undertaking among Commonwealth nations, and the largest telecommunications project in history. Its second stage, linking Canada with Australia by way of Hawaii, Fiji, and New Zealand, will be opened on December 2. The CBC will mark the occasion with special broadcasts on the radio and television networks.

The cable project was initiated at the Commonwealth Trade and Economic Conference in 1958. Short-wave radio circuits were becoming overcrowded and the success of the world's first submarine telephone cable, completed in 1956 between Europe and North America, had shown that cable was the best way to expand overseas communications channels. Stage one was completed in 1961 with the laying of the CANTAT cable between Canada and the United Kingdom. Stage two, the trans-Pacific link known as COMPAC, is joined to CANTAT through the trans-Canada microwave system to provide a telephone service spanning half the globe. In later stages it will be extended into Southeast Asia.

The broadcast of the opening ceremonies, to be carried by broadcasting organizations in all four countries, will be heard in Canada at 5:00 p.m. CST, 4:00 p.m. MST. It will begin with the official inauguration of the service by Her Majesty the Queen, and will include conversations among the prime ministers of the four Commonwealth nations involved in the historic communications project.

3. A local entertainer visits in the Music Room.

Take Thirty

Paul Fox talks about the mysteries of the current political and international controversies, and Madame Benoit gives some suggestions about cooking.

CBWT—Biography

Emperor Hirohito. As a "human" constitutional monarch, Hirohito has become a symbol of stability of the new Japan. He is held in such reverence that his people may only refer to him as "Tenshi, Son of Heaven."

The Serial

The Wings of Night. Beginning a drama in eight episodes, adapted from the novel of Thomas Raddall by Hugh Webster. Many scenes have been filmed on location on Nova Scotia's South Shore.

Neil Jamieson, a young man, returns to his home town, Oak Falls, a lumbering community in Nova Scotia, and finds his grandmother living in poverty, the town's one industry in the hands of a wealthy senator, and his boyhood sweetheart married to the senator's hard drinking son. Jamieson tries to free the town from the overpowering influence of the Quarrenders, but the resulting animosities lead to tragedy.

Cast: James Doohan as Neil Jamieson; John Drainie as Peter Carr; Jane Mallett as Grandmother Jamieson; Jeremy Wilkin as Steve Quarrender; Irena Mayeska as Louise Quarrender; Charity Haines as Emmy Quarrender; Charles Palmer as Senator Quarrender; Karen James as Tally; Joe Austin as Jim Pelerine; and Eric Clavering as Johnnie Brant.

Parade

Parade Goes To A Wedding. A comedy written by Bernard Slade and Paul Wayne, and starring Tom Kneebone and Pat Galloway.

CBXT—An Age of Kings

The Red Roses and the White. (Henry VI, Part I.) With the death of Henry V, his surviving brothers Bedford and Gloucester begin to revive the age old quarrel of the rightful succession. The two factions choose sides and the infant King, Henry VI, stands uneasily between his warring noblemen. (A repeat of Tuesday night's 7:00 p.m. episode.)

travels to Washington to persuade the U.S. Navy to build one, but the Admirals can't understand his broken English and the fact that he is a Nobel Prize-winner leaves them unimpressed. Then Dr. Albert Einstein writes on Fermi's behalf to the President, who promises action. But the Government doesn't do much for two years, aside from allocating $40,000 to Columbia for research.

May 5, 1940, William L. Laurence, science editor of the New York Times, writes a headline story detailing German research in atomic energy. It is ignored. The day before Pearl Harbour, December 6, 1941, Roosevelt finally orders a full-scale atomic project. A year later, on the floor of a squash court under the west stands of Stagg Field at Chicago University, where a pile built with six tons of uranium has been constructed, the complex monitoring instruments tell project scientists that something unusual is happening. The pile is operating. Human beings are producing power the same way energy is produced in the stars. The scientist in charge races to 'phone Roosevelt. "The Italian navigator has landed!" he shouts exultantly.

The project proceeds speedily in the highest secrecy, with two billion dollars worth of the most brilliant engineering in the history of science. Three separate, secret cities are built to accommodate it. Wives do not know what their husbands are working on. Many scientists understand only their own small part, unaware of the project's size and scope.

And then, at 8:15 on a perfect summer morning in Hiroshima, Japanese people on their way to work watch a parachute dropping gently from an American plane which they assume is in trouble. Seconds later the hopes and dreams of thousands of them are ashes, and through the billowing smoke the maimed survivors scream an agonized salute to a new era.

8:05 p.m.—The Party

Through the Wall

A drama by Scottish playwright Muriel Spark. The play deals with the problems of a middle-aged spinster.

How Many Marriages Are Really Happy?

A LOT OF ATTENTION is paid these days to "unsuccessful" marriages. People view with alarm the high incidence of divorce, marriage counsellors are kept busy trying to patch up tragically crumbling marriages, advice-to-the-lovelorn columnists write millions of words of consolation or castigation to those who seek their help.

But what about those vast numbers of people who are partners in seemingly successful, happy marriages? Because they don't receive the probing scrutiny of sociologists, these unions are generally presumed to be rich, satisfying relationships. But to one experienced observer of the scene, the number of truly happy, important relationships in marriage is much smaller than most of us may imagine.

The dissenting opinion comes from Dr. John F. Cuber, an Ohio State University sociologist and former marriage counsellor who has recently completed a three-year study of "successful" marriage relationships. He conducted his research among 437 upper-middle-class men and women between the ages of 35 and 55, all of whom had been married for at least 10 years, were not receiving aid from counsellors or psychiatrists, and were contemplating neither divorce nor separation.

From his findings among this group, plus his experience in social work and study over the past 25 years, Dr. Cuber has drawn a startling and depressing picture of the relationships in marriage. After conducting hundreds of lengthy and intimate interviews, he is convinced that only a comparative handful of people enjoy warm, meaningful relationships in marriage. The majority of husbands and wives, in his view, live in a grey half-world of abrasive conflict, apathy, or disillusioned dullness, from which affection, vitality and true love are missing.

Dr. Cuber's findings and opinions will be presented on two programs of the Project '64 series on CBC Radio on Sundays, December 1 and 8 at 5:00 p.m. Prepared by Sidney Katz of Maclean's magazine and produced by Jack Vance, the programs reflect Dr. Cuber's conclusions in their title: The Mask of Marriage.

Betty-Jean Hagen In Celebrity Recital

EDMONTON - BORN violinist Betty-Jean Hagen now lives in New York City, where her husband, Vincent Greicius, is a violinist in the orchestra of the Metropolitan Opera. She currently divides her time between concerts all over North America, including Alaska and the Yukon, and one or two annual tours of Europe, where she has played with leading orchestras in Britain, the Netherlands, France, Italy, Switzerland and Norway. She spends her summers on an island in Lake Penage, northern Ontario, with occasional sorties to play at music festivals.

wetz; and Rondo, opus 69 (1961) by Dmitri Kabalevsky.

Eighteen months ago Miss Hagen was a finalist in the violin division of the Tchaikovsky International Music Competition in Moscow, and she has won every other music competition she has ever entered, including, in New York, the 1955 Leventritt Award, which had not been won by a violinist for nine years, and the Naumberg Award, in a field of 130 contestants; the T. Eaton Award of $1,000 in Toronto; the Carl Flesch and Harriet Cohen Award in London; the Pathé Marconi Prize in Paris; and she was nominated "the outstanding woman musician in the British Commonwealth" in 1952.

She began her musical career at the age of three with piano lessons, and at the Alberta Music Festival a year later won her first award — for singing, the prize being violin lessons, which she began at seven. Her maternal great-grandfather had been a violin-maker in Aberdeen, and an uncle on her father's side was a "natural-born fiddler." Miss Hagen gave her first recital at eight, and a year later won a double scholarship in violin and piano at the Chicago Conservatory. Later she studied at the Royal Conservatory of Music of Toronto, with Geza de Kresz, and then in New York with Ivan Galamian and at the Juilliard School.

piece of silverware in triumph. Today, Canada's professional clubs spend millions every year in their attempts to emulate U of T's early example. No other sports event in Canada generates the widespread interest and excitement of the Grey Cup, nor attracts so large a following. The annual pageantry and revelry that surround the actual playing of the game rivals any in the world.

Spurred on by the promise of a monumental party, fans travel long distances to be in on the celebrations, held this year in Vancouver. The invasion of fun-seekers results in a rush of fresh business for restaurants, stores, hotels and other places catering to the public, and the bonanza created by the visiting firemen has been estimated in the millions of dollars in extra business. There are planned and impromptu parades, dinners, luncheons, breakfasts and receptions tendered by various organizations, and high-spirited fun and games throughout the entire week-end. With luck, the energetic celebrant may even remember to go to the stadium for the game.

Which brings us to the raison d'être of the whole magnificent blow-out: the game itself. The Grey Cup became a truly national contest in 1935, when the West won the Cup for the first time. The 1948 win was the fourth for the Westerners, but it wasn't until 1954 that they really began to roll. That year Edmonton Eskimos defeated the heavily-favoured Montreal Alouettes by one point, and went on to retain the championship for the two succeeding years. Hamilton snatched back victory for the East in '57, but Winnipeg Blue Bombers took the Cup back west again in '58 and '59. Ottawa stemmed the tide briefly in 1960, but Winnipeg poured back in '61 and '62 to uphold the honour of the West. At press time it is impossible to know which teams will meet in this year's clash, but it will be either Regina Roughriders or B.C. Lions against either Ottawa Rough Riders or Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Empire Stadium will be the spot where East meets West, and the twain will meet, no doubt, with a resounding crash.

Based on past Grey Cup games, the unusual will be the norm for the contest. The tradition of oddities started with the very first game back in 1909, when Parkdale substitutes puffed cigarettes furiously as they warmed the bench ("Rather a peculiar training stunt," was the opinion of a contemporary writer). Recent departures from regulation behaviour include the moment in the 1957 game in Toronto when Bibbles Bawel was tripped by a spectator as he sped down the sidelines to an almost-certain touchdown. In '60 Ottawa Rough Riders were declared winners over Edmonton Eskimos even though the game wasn't completed. In the final minute of play some youngsters ran off with the ball and thousands of fans crowded onto the field, forcing the calling of the game with 41 seconds still on the clock.

Last year, in perhaps the weirdest Grey Cup game of all, fog descended on Toronto's CNE Stadium so thickly that players, officials, candy butchers and television cameramen were falling over each other in blind confusion. After 50 minutes and 31 second of ghostly play, in which quarterbacks and ends materialized out of the gloom like latter-day Flying Dutchmen, and just as quickly disappeared back into limbo, the game was called part way through the final quarter. The next day, in an anti-climactic contest lasting just nine minutes, 29 seconds, Winnipeg retained its margin of 28-27 over Hamilton.

CBC Radio and Television networks will carry complete coverage of this year's game and its attendant celebrations and ceremonies.

Television coverage begins at 11:00 a.m. CST, 10:00 a.m. MST, with the telecast of the Grey Cup Parade from Vancouver. The Parade will contain more than 100 entries, including 30 bands, 30

Wesker has a splendid ear for common, vulgar speech, which he handles with admirable restraint. His characters "swear and rumble and snap and grunt just like all those human beings who glory in being plain people."

Wednesday night, December 4, at 9:30 p.m., CBC-TV's Festival presents a performance of Roots, adapted by Henry Comor and produced by Harvey Hart. The cast includes Geraldine McEwan, a member of the Sir John Gielgud company of School for Scandal, as Beatie; Margery Withers, a former BBC producer who launched a successful acting career in middle age, as Mrs Bryant; Powys Thomas as Mr. Bryant, with Vanya Franck, William Brydon, Chris Wiggins, Dawn Greenhalgh, and Alan Nunn.

Wesker is 31 years old with a deceptively gentle look. But he has an almost intimidating amount of energy, and his capacity for action scatters sluggards in all directions when he organizes a project. He usually wears a brown shirt without a tie, and stands very straight. Like all his family he's emotional and a great talker, and when he wants to emphasize a remark he cleaves the air with a stubby forefinger. His pet theme: the bankrupt state of modern culture. But because he's aware of the emptiness of words without action, he has devoted much of his time and energy in the last three years to organizing Centre 42, a movement to take festivals of the arts to some of Britain's grimy industrial towns, with the help of local trade unions. He defines Centre 42 as "a cultural hub which will destroy the mystique and snobbery associated with the arts. . . . Bingo is only the beginning." In Roots, Beatie expresses Wesker's view of the working classes when she says: "The whole stinking commercial world insults us. But it's our own fault. We want the third-rate—we get it."

The 60-voice St. Nicholas Ukrainian Catholic Choir, augmented to 90 with additional members from other parishes as well, is featured in a program that repeats a major portion of a public concert held recently, paying tribute to the first missionaries of The Order Of St. Basil The Great in Canada, and their first missions in Manitoba. Says the Very Rev. Bonifac V. Sloboda, O.S.B.M., who is also the choir's musical director—"the 60th anniversary of the Basilican Fathers in Canada marks the beginnings of organized life of the Ukrainian communities as part of the mosaic of Canadian multi-culturism."

Fervent choralism founded on the sounds of real basso profundos feature the music of the church tradition as well as folk music as noted below:

O My Thoughts.....Eugene Kozak

"The Superlative 'Cellist of Today"

WHEN A MEMBER of a symphony orchestra who has been eating regularly and depending on a pay cheque at the end of the month for many years suddenly starts freelancing internationally, it takes courage, exceptional talent, a winning personality, and lucky breaks to succeed in the stiff competition of the concert world. Doubtless many who have taken the plunge and found themselves beyond their depth and rather hungry have wished they could slink back to the anonymous security of the orchestra.

But since he left the first 'cellist desk of the New York Philharmonic in 1951, Leonard Rose has topped one success with another, and more than lived up to Dmitri Mitropoulos's assessment as "the superlative 'cellist of today. He is the finest I have ever worked with, possessing all the qualities that make a great artist."

Rose appears in the Symphony Hall series on CBC Radio Thursday night, December 5, at 11:00 p.m., as soloist with the Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra, playing Tchaikovsky's Variations on a Rococo Theme for 'Cello and Orchestra. Victor Feldbrill will conduct.

Born in Washington, D.C., in 1918, Rose moved with his family to Florida, where he studied 'cello with Walter Grossman and won a high school State-wide music competition at 13. The following year he gave numerous recitals in Florida, and at 16 won a scholarship to the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia as a pupil of Felix Salmond. In the fall of 1938, when Rose had graduated from the Institute, Arturo Toscanini appointed him assistant first 'cellist with the NBC Symphony.

The next summer, at 21, Rose joined the Cleveland Orchestra as first 'cellist—one of the youngest first-desk men in any major American symphony orchestra. Although he had left the NBC Orchestra, Toscanini asked him to accompany the orchestra on its South American tour, which he did. After four seasons with the Cleveland Orchestra, during which he made 14 appearances as soloist, and headed the 'cello department at the Cleveland Institute on the side, Rose joined the New York Philharmonic at first 'cellist in 1943, and held that position for eight years.

When he embarked on a solo career he received a number of fine tributes from conductors he had worked with, among them Dr. Bruno Walter, who said: "Leonard Rose's profound musicianship, technical perfection, his emotional warmth and the rare beauty of his tone have been a joy for me in all the years of our musical association. The cause of the 'cello's musical literature can be in no better hands than his."

RECIPES FEATURED ON
"LADIES FIRST" EACH WEDNESDAY

PREPARATION OF EGGPLANT

- 1 eggplant
- 2 tomatoes (chopped and drained)
- 1 onion (chopped)
- 1 clove garlic (pressed)
- ¼ cup olive oil
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 2 tbsp. vinegar
- Salt and pepper

Boil egg plant until tender. Peel and chop fine. Add remaining ingredients and mix well.

- 2 medium eggplants
- ½ lb. ground beef
- 1 grated raw potato
- 1 grated raw carrot
- 2 finely chopped onions
- 1 egg

Parboil eggplant; cut in half-inch slices and put under weight to remove moisture. Saute beef in 2 tbsp. butter and add potato, carrot and onions. When cool beat in egg. Wipe slices of eggplant, dip in flour and brown on both sides. Butter baking dish and sprinkle with bread crumbs. Put in slices of eggplant alternately with beef mixture ending with eggplant. Top with sliced tomatoes and over this pour ½ tin of tomato soup mixed with 1 cup consomme. Bake uncovered for ¾ of an hour at 350°. Remove from oven and sprinkle with parmesan cheese.

City Boy Gordie Tapp

Lover of Farming and Horses

GORDIE TAPP, affable emcee of CBC-TV's

COUNTRY HOEDOWN, loves farms, farming, and horses, which seems fitting, although Tapp is a city boy.

Born in London, Ont., 40 years ago, Gordie Tapp bounced into show business at the age of five in a school harmonica band. During his high school days he sang and played at school dances and concerts.

In 1947, he became a disc jockey at a Niagara Falls radio station. A stint at a station in Guelph followed and then he moved to CHML in Hamilton, Ont., where he developed his comic talents. From night club work in the area he developed Cousin Clem and another favourite, Gaylord.

When the CBC began auditions for Country Hoedown they asked Tapp to act as master of ceremonies. Gordie was an instant success and is now in his eighth year with the Friday night program.

With the established success of his weekly TV show, an amiable half-hour of fiddles and foot-tapping harmony and added income from stage appearances, Tapp found himself in a position to fulfill some dreams. He bought his first horse and since then the emcee, singer, dancer, writer, musician and businessman has bought and sold more than 12 horses.

Gordie recently purchased a 35-acre farm in Burlington, with a large farmhouse and stables. He's currently carefully remodelling the farm house so that the rustic look of the place is kept.

In the stables, Gordie has a total of seven horses including his prize-winning thoroughbred hunter, French Flash, and two Arabians.

French Flash is Gordie's favourite mount. He purchased the horse in 1962 and shortly after entered him at the Hamilton-Wentworth fair. The horse took first and second prizes in the walk, trot and canter entries. The Arabian horses were recently acquired by Gordie from George Ross, owner of the Lost River Ranch in Alberta, the largest ranch in Canada—283,000 acres.

To exercise the animals, Gordie rides daily in good weather and two or three times a week during the winter. His riding attire, unlike Cousin Clem's floppy hat and overalls, consists of a cavalry-twilled jacket and jodhpurs tucked into gleaming knee-high boots.

All of Gordie's four children are good riders, and his eldest daughter, Barbara, 14, has become an avid jumper, winning several ribbons in southern Ontario horse shows. Tapp's wife, Helen, is the only non-rider in the family.

Gordie says his ultimate goal in the horse business is breeding thoroughbreds.
